.....Thinking of you

Dear Rucha and Yankele, Amir, Liat and Aviram and Reut,

This is a time when words fail - when there just aren't any words to express the depth of sorrow at the loss of your beloved Noa.

We first really had a chance to spend time with Noa when she came with Saba for Roy and Tamara's engagement party the Pesach before their wedding. We were all immediately taken with her - her smile, her warmth, her excitement - Noa was a joy to be around. Her enthusiasm for whatever she was doing was contagious. If you were with Noa - her happiness washed over you. I particularly remember that after the Seders, and after the party, when Roy and Tamara, Shalva, Arie, Shira and Yoni had already left for New York, we had a quiet dinner with my sisters and their families the night before Noa and Saba were returning to Israel. Noa told us the story of the phone conversation she had with Roy when he told her that he had met Tamara and thought that she was "the one". We laughed and laughed at her version of the story - especially the part when she told Roy that she didn't believe him - that it was "bullshit!"

But there was more to Noa. She cared for Saba with such gentleness and love and respect. It was clear how much she loved him and how much he loved her. It was clear what a fine person she was - what a good person.

As much as Noa was a blessing for you, her family, you were a blessing for her. Your love and support - physically, emotionally and in every possible way, must, I'm sure have been constant comfort for Noa.

Please know that here, in Toronto, you are all in our thoughts. I hope you'll share this email with Saba and tell him that we are thinking of him too.

With love,

Cheryl and Shimmy,
Noah and Stephanie, Benji and Aliza, Gabe and Abby
